In their free time the competitors will be taken on a tour of the campus, seeing Munroe, Gifford, Starr library and the science buildings, with demonstrations in the chemistry, physics, biology and geology laboratories. They will also attend chapel Sunday afternoon.

UNITY AFTER WAR IS TOPIC DEBATED IN PUBLIC FORUM

Third in a series of faculty-led discussions designed to give the students of Middlebury College a better understanding of current world problems, a meeting was held in Hepburn hall Sunday evening in which the topic dealt with was post-war federation.

Profs. Lynford A. Lardner and Robert W. Rafuse of the political science department presented their views concerning the need for federation, following which, Prof. William F. Madden of the psychology department argued the question from the viewpoint of the psychologist.

Professor Lardner advanced his opinion that some form of a revitalized League of Nations is all that the American people would be willing to accept as a post-war organization. This was opposed, however, by Professor Rafuse who claimed that some form of more closely-knit federation was imperative in which the member nations submitted much of their national sovereignty to some central authority.

Fear of repetition of such a conflict as the present war, added to any subsequent education which political scientists give to the American people, would be sufficient to convince the majority of the necessity for such action, he argued. Professor Madden maintained that a "nationless world" in which all "man-made nationalism" were eliminated is the solution of the psychologist to the problem of world peace.

Election Of Forum Officers Is April 29

Wolff and vonThurn To Be Presidential Candidates; Spring Party Is Planned

Plans are underway for a spring party to be given at the community house for children from Middlebury and from Ripton school in the latter part of May. A similar party was given last spring, and it is expected that the custom will be continued in the future.

Lois Groben '43 Is New Pan-Hellenic President

Pan-Hellenic held its last meeting and annual picnic last Thursday afternoon at the Community House. Grace E. Barry '42, the retiring president, handed her duties over to Lois E. Groben '43 at this time.

The picnic was held as a farewell to the senior council and a welcome to the new sophomore members. Members of the senior council were Miss Barry, president, Dorothy J. Miss Groben assumed the presidency of Pan-Hellenic as a result of the rotation system, under which each sorority has a representative chosen as president of this inter-sorority council every seven years.

Student Union Constitution Approved By Men's Assembly

LIBRARY LIGHTING FUND ALLOTTED

Proposed changes to the method of election of representatives to the Men's Student Assembly was the main business brought up at the regular meeting of the assembly held Sunday evening, and at a special session called for Monday evening by Philip W. Rifenberg '42, Speaker.

The proposed amendment to the constitution of the Assembly was passed by a majority of over three-fourths of the Assembly members at the meeting Monday, but prior to its taking effect, the amendment must be passed by the Student Life committee and a simple majority of the members of the men's college.

61% Of College Income Supported Annually by Middlebury Students

By Jean V. Ledden '44

College finances, or where Papa's money goes after it passes through the bars in the treasurer's office, have always been a source of interest and speculation to Middlebury students. Authoritative sources released figures pertaining to this subject today.

'Way back when Middlebury College was just one building which included offices, class rooms and all the college facilities, when the students depended on candle light, fireplaces for heat, and pumps for water, tuition was just a matter of a few dollars a semester. The fabulous change in college finances, now conducted on a scale greater by many hundred percent, shows as well as any other development in the college the growth of Middlebury as an institution.

Income From Students

Middlebury students pay in annually, from tuition and other fees, $272,000, or 61% of the college's entire income. The other 39%, $171,000, comes from other sources, endowments, and other non-permanent funds.

The cost of operating the college, not including dining room expenses, dormitory bills, or summer school costs, all of which are covered by separate items on the student's bill, is approximately $445,000. Of that amount, $311,000, or 72%, goes for instruction, libraries, athletics and other college activities. There are literally hundreds of small accounts under these main headings.

$84,000, or 18% of the cost of college maintenance, goes for administration and general offices, which include the president's, treasurer's, deans', alumni and alumnae, editor's, admissions and business manager's offices. For plant operation, maintenance of the grounds and buildings, heat, light, janitors, insurance, and furnishings, $48,000, or 10% of the entire cost, is spent.

Reserve Fund

When these figures are added together, it is evident that they do not exactly balance. This is because each year the small extra amount is put aside for refurnishing, improvements, and for the ever possible "rainy day."

ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS

The proposed changes in the election of the Men's assembly this Spring may be criticised on some details but the purpose of the changes represents a great advance in student government.

One of the greatest faults of the present Assembly system has been that it functions only after the beginning of the year—after most of the governing work has been done by the President and his council. The proposed system will change the Assembly to a body which will start to function at the beginning of the year and as such it will give the proctor system a better basis on which to operate.

It will give the college an Assembly which will function for an entire year; it will relieve the President of the Undergraduates and the President's council of much of the governing work which ordinarily falls on them at the beginning of the year; and it will give the Speaker of the Assembly, elected in the Spring, an entire summer to review his functions and the constitution.

On the negative side it will give the college a fraternity rather than geographical representation but, even so, this change is expcted to put better men in the Assembly than did the much-criticised petition plan of elections procedure.

Admittedly due in great part to the present emergency the plan has many improvements which will still apply in times of peace.

EDUCATION OR ENLISTMENT?

(From the AMERICAN COUNCIL ON EDUCATION)

"Shall I continue my education or enlist?" This question, it is pointed out in a recent Bulletin of the American Council on Education, must be translated into another question before today's college man can intelligently answer it for himself. "In what way can I, being the person I am, best serve my nation in the war?"

According to the American Council's Bulletin, three alternatives are offered the college man who asks himself this latter question. He may volunteer. He may go to work in an essential industry. He may intensify his college study to fit himself for a later place of leadership in the armed forces or the production world.

Even if he volunteers, however, provision may be made for him to continue his studies until he has completed his requirements for a degree. The Service fields in which this provision is most likely are Advanced ROTC, Medicine, Dentistry, and Reserve Midshipman training.

"There is today," the Bulletin continues, "a pressing need (far greater than the supply) for technical and scientific personnel in industry, as civilian employees in the armed forces, and in other government capacities. Any proffered position, though, should be measured in terms of its ultimate and not its immediate personal value. The real criterion is this: Does my taking this job here and now make me a more effective fighter for my nation than if I were to continue my preparation for a more important service later?"

With respect to the third alternative, continuation of study, the Bulletin notes that nineteen technical and professional fields have been listed for serious consideration for deferment in the light of a study of present and potential shortage of manpower. It must always be remembered that the man who is granted occupational deferment is selected for deferment by his government. This places the deferred college man under an even more serious obligation than his classmates who enlist, but it makes his eventual worth to the nation that much greater.

First Blackout For College Is Great Success

By Joan V. Ingalls '44

At 9:45 last Friday night Middlebury College temporarily disappeared from the map of Vermont. Any planes chancing over this part of the Green Mountain state would never have had an inkling that a college was hiding in the dark below. Except for the fact that the streetlights were burning importantly, the campus was a blank spot on the countryside.

The blackout became a social affair on the calendar. House-duty girls were kept busy ringing buzzers to call people for their blackout dates and it is known that at least one fraternity pin changed hands in the dark.

No blackout would be a success without a false alarm and that alarm came from Forest hall about 9:30. Someone heard some chimes on the radio and tore around the floor putting out the lights only to discover that the rest of the campus was embarrassingly well-lighted.

The "sunset" bells boomed out at the appointed hour and gave the signal for the lights to disappear. Batt Cott vanished first, quickly followed by the rest of the dorms and buildings. There was one window in Gifford that stubbornly shone until it was rudely doused by a warden.

Several double warnings were handed out on the women's side of the campus, ostensibly because the parties got lost when the lights went out. It is readily foreseen that the word "blackout" will become a national excuse for lateness.

It has been suggested that a Blackout committee be formed to supplement the social committee and make blackouts a regular calendar event at Middlebury. The three-ring circus of the night has proved very popular with the college and is certainly an example of American ability to combine business with pleasure.

Communications

To the Editor of the CAMPUS:

Talk of duty in a time of national emergency is usually overdone, but there is perhaps a need for one or two observations to be put more clearly before the Middlebury student body. Our environment is of the sort that should stimulate, perhaps more than any other, intellectual activity of all sorts, and it should be evident by now that what we need to win this war is, above all, intellectual activity. We shall not have won the war until we have won the peace, and if we do not start now to formulate ideals and make plans, we shall be caught asleep at the switch, and it will be all over with us.

In the back of our minds we all know this, but unfortunately, it too often remains there. If we, in our circumstances, do not start the movements we want to penetrate the national mind, we are failing to accept a vital responsibility. To the groups already devoted to a serious consideration of war and peace problems we give our whole-hearted approbation, but even their usefulness depends on the sacrifice each one of us makes of the incidental interests of campus life.

Alumni Attend Dinners Held In Several States; Shown College Movies

Alumni and alumnae met Monday evening, April 6, at the Kennedy-Warren in Washington, for an alumni dinner at which fifty Middlebury graduates turned out. John F. Darrow '37 presided as toastmaster, and Guy C. Hendry '15, director of the U.S.O. unit at Annapolis, was song leader.

Pres. Paul D. Moody and Edgar J. Wiley, director of admissions, were guests from the college. President Moody reported on recent developments on campus, and the new color movies of Middlebury scenes and events were shown by Mr. Wiley.

Another alumni dinner was held April 7 at Houston hall of the University of Pennsylvania, where Hugh O. Thayer '12 was toastmaster and pianist for the college songs.

A new group held its first annual meeting at the Alden tavern in Lyme, N. H., on April 11. Those attending represented the alumni and alumnae in the upper Connecticut River Valley in New Hampshire and Vermont. Dr. Charles J. Lyon '18, professor of botany at Dartmouth college, acted as toastmaster. A skit entitled "Bright Lights in the Old Chapel," depicting a faculty meeting back in 1916, written by Dr. Lyon, was presented, with members of the group impersonating various members of the faculty.

Mrs. Marion Munford, alumnae secretary, and Mrs. Ernest Elliot '05, spoke for the alumnae, and Dr. Dale S. Atwood '13 for the alumni. Mr. and Mrs. Wiley presented a musical quiz feature entitled, "Songs of the Colleges," the prize for which, a copy of the Middlebury College Songbook, was awarded to Carl D. Howard '30, captain of the B team.

Alumni dinners have been or will be held before April 25 in Utica, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Minneapolis, with Prof. Arthur M. Brown and Mr. Wiley as guests from the College.

Midd Beats Springfield 4-3; Four-Hitter Pitched By Desmond

SHEA HOMERS IN 8th

Middlebury's veteran - studded baseball nine began its season with a neat 4-3 victory over the brawny boys of Springfield College last Saturday in Springfield, Mass.

Bill Desmond began the game on the mound for the Panthers and held his opponents to 4 scattered hits for the duration. Bill pitched to the corners and was never in a serious hole during the contest. He could have had better assistance in both the infield and outfield.

Bobo Sheehan drove in the first two runs of Midd's 1942 season with a sharp single early in the game. Ed Yoemans was accredited with sixteen putouts and played a fine offensive game collecting two hits in four trips to bat.

Infield Strong

Both Ed Flemming and Bobo Sheehan were outstanding in the Blue and White infield, playing 3rd and shortstop respectively. Sandy Young collected a three bagger but was caught in an attempted squeeze play when the Midd batter missed the signal.

Two of Springfield's runs came in on an error by Johnny Prukop in right field with men on second and third. Prukop got one hit out of five trips.

With the score tied 3-3 in the first half of the 8th inning Ed Shea stepped to the plate and blasted the first ball pitched for a home run. Ed was just crossing the plate as the fielder stooped to pick up the game-winning ball. This home run was Ed's second hit of the day. He also played errorless ball in the field.

A.I.C. Sluggers Win 9-1; Errors Prove Costly For Panthers

MIDD HELD TO 2 HITS

After their victory on Friday, the Middmen faced an infinitely stronger team at American International college where the Panthers went down to a 9-1 defeat despite the fine pitching of Hal Skinner and George Wiemann.

Novak, the A.I.C. pitcher, held the Blue and White to two hits as his teammates gathered 9 from Midd. The Middlebury team had the edge on the errors, however, collecting 5 to A.I.C.'s 2. Skinner twirled a fine game but had the misfortune to face batters who could hit low, inside balls anywhere in the park. The catcher, Jaszek, decided not to be limited with the park and lifted a homer into the lights on the top of a pole 290 feet from home plate.

Rooney and Sheehan were the only two Middlebury men to hit. Sandy Young scored the one run, coming home on an infield out. The defeat was due mainly to the batting strength of A.I.C.

George Wiemann relieved Skinner on the mound in the fifth and held A.I.C. to one unearned run for the remainder of the contest. He showed plenty of control and a good fast ball.

FIRST MATCH FOR TENNIS TEAM AGAINST WILLIAMS

Opening their season this weekend, Midd's Courtmen will travel to Williams college on Thursday, and continue on to Amherst for a second match on Friday. Due to the weather this past week the "round robin" that was to determine the men that would take this first trip, was not completed. Therefore, those men will be chosen by Coach Cornwall on Wednesday.

One noticable absence will be that of Capt. Bob Maxwell, who has requested the coach to send someone in his position, as he will be leaving college late this month. He felt this would be better for the team organization, instead or rearranging it during the season.

There are five returning lettermen, who will probably be among those taking the first trip. These men are, Charlie Baird, Lew Haines, Tom MacDonald, Harold Melvin and Charlie Proctor. There are also, however, several freshmen, that have shown promise during their practice matches. Those freshmen include, John Adams, Phil Dunham, Jan Lindner, Dick McCrudden and "Albie" Robinson. Al Hadley has also been practicing with the squad.

On returning, the squad will have three days to finish their practice matches before the next meet, to be held on Tuesday, April 28th. A more definite team plan can then be announced.

Baseball Team, Trackmen Face UVM And RPI

Bill Desmond To Seek Second Win On Friday

In the second home game of the season, the baseball team will face U.V.M. on Friday at 3:30 p.m. and then next Tuesday it will travel to St. Michaels college for the fifth game of the year. Although the game held this afternoon might change Saturday's lineup somewhat, it is probable that the same men will be in the starting positions against the Catamounts as were in the first two games.

Union Baseball Game

The game between Union college and Midd, played to-day, was the first home game, and gave Middlebury fans their first chance of the year. It has been rather hard for the squad to practice so far this month, because of the rainy weather, therefore this gave some indication as to our material, for all those fans who were present.

With one game to his credit already, Bill Desmond is expected to pitch on Saturday against the U.V.M. team. Other players will be the same as in the line-ups of the earlier games.

R.P.I. Next In Track

Leaving their home ground for a second week-end Midd's track team will travel to R.P.I. next Saturday, for its third meet of the season. During the absence of Coach Brown, Capt. Jack Bates will assume the coaching duties for this next meet.

Same Team Line Up

By this time the team is fairly well organized, and those men who ran last week will also be on hand for Saturday's meet. If weather permits there is a possibility of holding a few time trials in some of the events before the next meet.

This will be the last meet held away, for this year, since the final meet will be against U.V.M. at Middlebury, on May 6th.

Both UVM and Middlebury teams are of similar caliber, and although the Panther trackmen have shaded the Cats in two pre-season unofficial meets the outcome is still very much in doubt as neither team presented a full complement on either occasion.

Jack Bates Scores Three Wins, Stebbins Two For Victory

SIX OTHER FIRSTS GIVE 81 1-2 - 44 1-2 WIN

By allowing the Dutchmen only three first places while taking 11 for the Blue and White, a strong Panther Track and Field squad came back from defeat at the hands of Williams to trim a confident Union team last Saturday in Schenectady.

The Middmen, in the second official showing of the season, finished out in front with 81½ points to the 44½ gained by the Garnet. At no time during the contest was the outcome in doubt. Middlebury displayed smooth action all the way, even in those events which went to the Maroon. As in the Williams meet, however, the Panthers showed a severe weakness in the field events enabling Union to capture three events, shot put, discus and pole vault.

Bates Sets The Pace

Jack Bates, Panther track capt., entered four events and wound up with 18 points, capturing three firsts and a second. This versatile cinderman thus bettered his last week's mark when he emerged from the Williams' fray with a total of 13 points. Against the Dutchmen, Bates ran a 0:10.4 hundred to take the field, loafed through a 0:26.5 sec. 220 low hurdles, in the very next race won the 220 dash in 0:22.9, and had enough left to pull down a second place in the running broad jump.

Dave Stebbins romped home in the middle distance events, taking both the 440 in 0:51 flat and the 880 in 2:04.4. By winning these two places Stebbins scored the biggest upset of the day, for it was here that Union had placed all its chances for winning over Midd. Ironically enough the Dutchmen thought little of their opportunities in the field and yet scored three wins in the division.

Dick Kinsey scored his first place in the two mile event with the time of 10:38.5. Kinsey did not take the lead at first, but just stepped out in front early in the race and retained that position, pushed all the way by Union's Quinlan, finishing up with a beautiful kick.

In the mile run freshman George Morse scored his first victory for Midd in 4:40.2 for a rather good mile. Garnet capt. Orton pushed Morse all the way, but could not catch that clean, fast stride and Morse came in ten yards ahead.

Field Events

Hal Parker cleared the bar at 5 ft 7½ ins. to take first in the high jump. In the pole vault he was second to Union's Willson who went over the top at 10 ft. 6 ins. for one of the Dutchmen's three wins. Strangely enough Parker cannot place in his own event, the two mile run. In the last two meets he has, however, been well compensated by placing in the high jump and the pole vault.

Hal Hollister, who hereofore has been known as a cinderman exclusively, went out of bounds again to capture the javelin event with a throw of 162 feet. Not satisfied to rest upon these laurels Hollister scored a third in the quarter mile, a race which is definitely not his.

Parsons took the shot put for the Dutchmen, heaving 37 ft. 9½ ins. Midd placed John Gale second and Paul Davis third in this event. Although Union captured the discus the Panthermen were on the ball all the way taking second and third. First was Schur who hurled the saucer 116 feet 8 inches. Bill Hawkes got second and John Zydik completed the winning trio.

BILL BOARD By CALKINS

WHAT'S WRONG?

When a college hits a low ebb in athletics, the natural reaction of students, faculty and alumni is, what's wrong? Middlebury teams in general have slipped downhill in the past few years, and we feel that something must be out of kilter.

Our answer to this—a list of suggestions from a cross-section of Middlebury men students. Opinions were asked for, but not signatures—thereby eliminating any tendency toward pulling punches when answering the question "What do you think that the principal weaknesses in the athletic set-up at Midd are?"

The replies were varied, but all showed that Midd athletes and sports fans and students are thinking and talking about this problem.

One thing should be kept in mind, we are just dealing with the weaknesses—Midd sports have their strong points too.

Interestingly, the opinion expressed most often was that fraternity politics and playing sports primarily because of the fraternity, not for the team, were major weaknesses in the system. One student (a fraternity man incidentally) expressed a very sincere and we think quite justifiable opinion when he said, "The weaknesses of the athletic set-up here in Middlebury can be boiled down to one thing—fraternities; their petty ambitions, their prejudices, their dirty politics, their lack of cooperation and their hypocrisy are vices which have prevented the restoration of a right spirit in athletics."

Another popular answer also falls directly on the students' shoulders. The lack of student interest, half-hearted support by the spectators, and the attitude of some of those participating on teams were all given as reasons why Panther athletics have slipped.

An equal number said that the administration minimizes athletics in relation to scholarship—it is a question of degree. Studies are more important than sports, but Middmen can't be both scholars and athletes. Some adjustment along this line is advocated by many students. One view was that athletics are of tertiary importance at Midd—scholarship and social life coming first.

A need for co-operation between faculty and students and coaches was also stated.

One sports-minded Blue and White fan said that we haven't made up our minds yet whether to build morale and character or win games—we must subsidize or schedule teams in our own class if we want to do the latter.

Another student, anticipating such a suggestion, said that Middlebury has athletes here, and subsidization is unnecessary.

Lack of equipment will be the cry until Midd is blessed with a new gym. This is definitely a handicap, but there is not much that we of the student body can do at this point.

Some said that there were weaknesses in the coaching staff and that the department of athletics needs more coaches. Men, it was said, need athletic experience in high or prep school in order to play at Midd.

A training table under the direction of the department of athletics was suggested by one student. The benefits of this system would be that the men would meet their food requirements, the teams would be bound closer together, and Midd would produce stronger men.

The overlapping of intramurals and varsity sports is considered a bad feature by another opinion-giver. When varsity football men, for example, leave practice to go play intramural volleyball or golf, it is bad.

This just about completes the opinons that we received. These do not necessarily represent our feelings on the subject—they are presented for your information. Any other ideas on this subject will be appreciated.

ON THE RIGHT FOOT

Yes sir, Middlebury more than held its own last week-end. Down at Springfield, Bill Desmond pitched a four-hitter while Ed Shea pounded out a homerun in the eighth that was the margin of victory in the baseball opener. Nice going, boys. The team did well for one day's practice outdoors. The trouncing by AIC didn't seem so bad after the Springfield game.

The Blue and White track team should have a very successful season on the basis of its first two meets. Losing by 7 2-3 points to a Williams team that has won eighteen consecutive dual meets (including Saturday's with Rochester) is no disgrace. The run-away meet with Union was featured by Jack Bates' Performance of three firsts and a second. We're looking forward to the battle between Jack and Bert Mott of UVM, who won five firsts for his team against Bowdoin Saturday. They both run the 100, 220, low hurdles and broad jump.

INTRAMURAL GAMES POSTPONED BY RAIN

Due to the rainy weather, the Intramural softball schedule has been changed, and will be played off as soon as the weather permits. At present the CP-DKE game, which was scheduled for last Monday, will be played on Thursday. All other games will follow in their proposed order.

New Election Procedure Is Passed By Assembly

4. The Executive Committee shall call a meeting of the neutral body at the same time that the fraternity elections are held. The neutral body shall be entitled to four representatives.

5. The election of representatives shall take place at least three weeks before the college room drawings. (This year the elections shall be held as soon as the Executive Committee is able to make provisions.)

6. The duly elected representatives shall hold room drawings before the general College room drawings. These drawings shall be conducted on a class seniority basis.

7. The officers of the freshman class shall automatically become members of the Assembly as soon as they are elected.

8. The President of the Undergraduate Association shall cause to be published in the CAMPUS, two weeks prior to the elections, the date on which the elections shall be held.

Library Lighting

Further business brought before the Assembly Sunday included a report to the effect that the trustees had appropriated $500 to be used in improving lighting conditions in Starr library. It was learned that a larger sum would have been appropriated, and further improvements planned, if materials were obtainable at the present time. As it is, provision is being made for the installation of fluorescent lighting equipment.

In addition, the new constitution of Student Union was accepted, as was the constitution of the newly-formed Middlebury College Yacht club.

Two new committees were appointed by Speaker Rifenberg; the Chapel Speakers committee is composed of Aldom H. Scott '43, George O. Harris '44, and Robert E. Reuman '44; the committee which is to confer with the senior board of the CAMPUS on questions of editorial policy consists of Aldom H. Scott '43, James B. Nourse '43, and William D. Neale '44.

While doing a little extra-curricular reading in one of our favorite magazines the other day we happened to strike a name that looked somewhat familiar, and pausing for a closer look, discovered it to be Vermont. There was a story connected with it, as there usually is with that name. It seems that a man was driving along one of the smaller highways in the state and stopped for gas at a little crossroads garage. While the proprietor is pumping gas, the man remarks, "I suppose you're pretty sore at Leon Henderson, eh?" "Can't say's I am. Who is he?" the garageman replies. Lighting a cigarette, to conceal the fact that he has begun to tremble like a leaf, the customer then says, "You sell tires?" "Yup," the Vermonter says. "You want one?" "Oh, I might as well take four while I'm about it," our hero says. He gets four tires, hands over thirty-five dollars, and drives away in a cloud of dust. Miracles never cease! We have a friend who has been doing a lot of walking lately.

* * *

We see that "Zwoelf uhr Blatt" (that's a German newspaper, which seems to have a singularly apt title) says that Hitler's birthday was celebrated in Berlin with "solemn meditation."—The results of a misspent life no doubt. We would like to further quote a particularly tender passage from this paper.—"The love and loyalty flowing after a hard winter toward the man who guides Germany's fate are not measured only according to the hopes set in him by the nation but also by a realization of the joint road that we share with him."

Committees Appointed For Last Production

According to Barbara H. Skinner '43, production manager, the following committees have been selected for the staging of "The Perfect Alibi," which will be presented at the playhouse May 6 and 7, and during Senior Week on May 22 and 23.

Unterecker '44; Assistant Stage Manager, Beth M. Warner '43.

The committee for stage building under Mr. Volkert will consist of Ann N. Curtis '42, Madeleine Fauvre '44, Barbara I. Hall '44, Phyllis V. Rutan '44, Elizabeth N. Thompson '44, Rosemary E. Coates '45, Toba H. Gertz '45, Miriam Kendzur '45, Ruth J. Reynolds '45, and Janet H. Richmond '45.

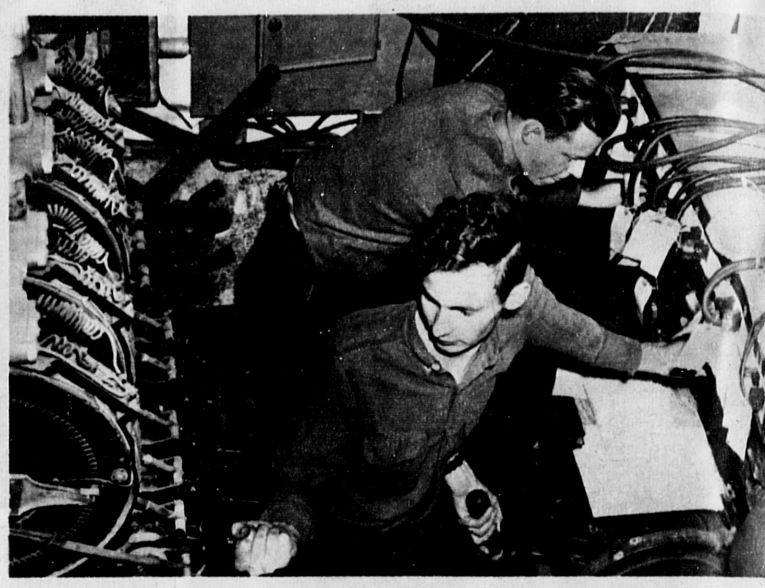
Ingenuity Solves Set Problems

"Romeo and Juliet" is not only one of the classics of the stage but also one of the classi headaches for set designers. Its 19 scene changes and 10 different sets presented man difficult problems for the University of Maine Masque Players because their Littl Theatre lacks "wings" and "grids", or ceiling space.

Utilizing everything but the audience itself, Masque's talented technical directo Norman Mennes, designed sets which proved to be the acme of uniqueness and adapta bility to the problems involved. By hinging, folding and turning, each unit was used fo many scenes. One set, for example, when on casters, formed Juliet's bedroom, whe folded upon itself it became a church and when turned around it represented a stree scene. The famous balcony doubled as a part of the bedroom. Clever use of material plus ideas overcame mechanical difficulties complicated by a limited budget.



David Hempstead and Roger Moulton get their portable control boards in readiness for the show. These engineering students got plenty of practical experience while working on the lighting for "Romeo and Juliet", which presented many tricky problems.

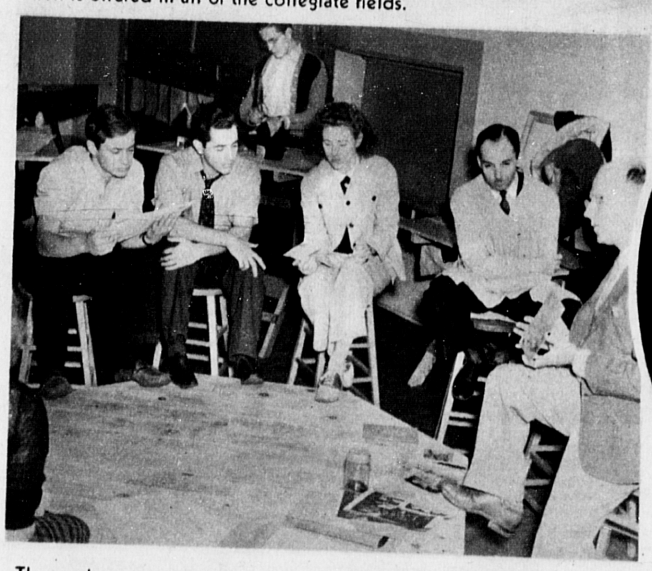
So This Is College!

Backbone of the nation's higher educational structure is the medium-sized liberal arts college. Typical of this type of school is Lawrence College, located at Appleton, Wisconsin. Founded in 1847, Lawrence is a privately endowed college, is supported by endowment income, gifts and student fees. Its 725 students are charged $300 per year for tuition, health service and laboratory fees and the average student can plan on an annual expenditure of $750, including room and board.

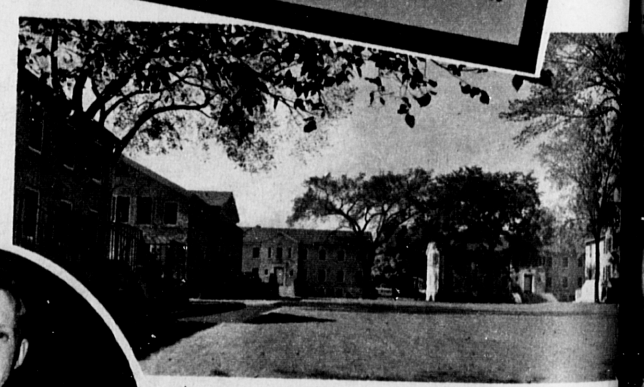
One of some 650 liberal arts schools, Lawrence offers each student a carefully designed and coherent course of study, intimate association between teacher and student, and participation in a democratic environment emphasizing spiritual values and wholesome social and creative activities.

Lawrence attempts to provide as many contacts as possible for students and faculty to know each other well and to meet on intimate terms for discussion and learning. Instruction is offered in all of the collegiate fields.



The art department maintains a Hobby Workshop, where students may voluntarily develop and express their artistic interests. Here a guest artist analyzes art techniques while the boy in background makes a decoy duck.

Students have considerable responsibility in their own governing. Above, Don Frederickson, president of the student body, addresses his constituents in chapel.



A new quarter million dollar fraternity quadrangle was opened last spring under a unique cooperative plan with the college. It has created considerable interest in the Greek world.

Students gather on the steps of Memorial Chapel before one of the weekly chapel meetings. The college is affiliated with the Methodist church.
